Re: WPP Properties and WPP Group USA, Inc. v. John Doe
08-CV-2873 (RMB)

Dear Judge Berman:

This firm represents the plaintiffs WPP Properties and WPP Group USA, Inc. ("WPP") in the above matter. We have received notice that Your Honor has scheduled an initial pre-trial conference on April 15, 2008 at 9:00 am and write to request that this pre-trial conference be adjourned until WPP is able to effectuate service on a named defendant in this case.

WPP commenced the instant action because it believes it is the victim of a phishing scam. Specifically, WPP has received at least 9 email communications in which an unknown individual misuses the WPP mark and fraudulently offers employment opportunities with "WPP Group" and/or attempts to solicit personal information from the email recipients. These emails, in English, Spanish and Italian, open by saying "Welcome to WPP Group." They claim that "WPP Group" is seeking a "Representative" for a part-time job which will "offer extremely competitive graduate salaries." Recipients of such emails are directed to send an email to G-Mail addresses (which in most instances contain a reference in such address to "WPP") so that a representative of "WPP Group" can make contact with the recipient and answer all questions. In at least one instance, the sender of these emails provided a follow-up communication, from a G-Mail address, asking the recipient to sign a contract with WPP Group and to provide his or her full name, full address, the name of the recipient's bank with account and routing numbers, along with a copy of the recipient's photo ID or driver's license.

CONFERENCE ADJOURNED TO 5/19/08
[REDACTED] AT 9:15 A.M.

SO ORDERED:
Date: 4/7/08
